READING & PREPARATION

Background reading: you should aim at least to read The Enigma of Capital by David Harvey. However, in preparation for specific lectures and seminars you should study the following schedule carefully and do the reading indicated. If you experience any difficulty gaining access to any of these texts you should contact Don Milligan to ask for advice and assistance. Also, you should make a habit of exploring the Studies In Anti-Capitalism website at www.studiesinanti-capitalism.net for useful documents and links to relevant reading and audio-visual materials.

17. THE CRISIS OF CAPITALIST DEVELOPMENT

Reading:

18. THE RATIONAL FAITH OF ANTI-CAPITALISTS

The last lecture will bring together all the elements of the course together in order to discuss the ubiquitous and resolute character of resistance to capitalism.
FIRST TERM: ESSAY QUESTIONS

1. Why do some economists, theoreticians and politicians argue that there is no alternative to capitalism? Give the principal arguments in their favour and carefully explain why you agree or disagree with their outlook.

2. What do campaigners mean by ‘neo-liberalism’? Critically discuss the scope of this concept and explain its importance to those engaged in the anti-capitalist movement.

3. Critically evaluate the role of peace movements in the development of the organisational forms typical within the anti-capitalist movement.

4. In what way might the ‘life style’ and the political tactics and strategies of some anti-capitalists be said to ‘pre-figure’ the world for which they are fighting?

5. What do Situationists mean by the concept ‘recuperation’? Discuss the ways in which this idea might still be relevant in analysing the successes and failures of modern radical campaigns.

6. Are the Zapatistas revolutionaries? Critically discuss the development of the Zapatistas’ programme since 31st December 1993.

SECOND TERM: ESSAY QUESTIONS

7. Discuss the contemporary relevance of the Communist Manifesto. Why does it continue to inform and inspire some anti-capitalists?

8. Why are anarchist ideas relevant to an understanding of the modern anti-capitalist movement? Discuss with relation to a specific campaign, event or group.

9. Critically discuss the development and organisation of the World Social Forums.

10. Are violent attacks upon property and those defending it justified, or are they counterproductive? Consider the way in which this problem has been discussed within the movement. Give specific examples and arguments relating to the organisation of particular demonstrations or actions.

11. Critically explore the activities of The Clandestine Insurgent Rebel Clown Army. What traditions do they draw upon, and what do they and other tricksters hope to achieve in confronting power with derision and ridicule?

12. Why have company logos, advertising campaigns, and the promotion of consumer goods, provoked hostility among campaigners and often provided them with a focus around which to organise.
University Student Agreement

An excellent educational experience depends on the close and effective partnership between the University, its students and the Students’ Union. This Agreement establishes a series of expectations, standards and responsibilities for each partner in that joint activity.

It should be read in conjunction with the University’s regulations.

The University will ensure that:

- staff are committed to high standards in teaching, support, feedback and the provision of advice and guidance
- staff participate in Continuing Professional Development to improve the quality of learning and teaching
- statements of the time frame for feedback on submitted work are clearly stated in Programme Handbooks
- staff will give reasonable notice of changes to the teaching timetable and will arrange for classes to be re-scheduled or for alternative delivery of the content, or will explain why this is not possible
- student participation in programme management is encouraged and supported by a variety of means including the system of elected student representatives
- it provides extensive and well publicised access to library, information technology, media resources, and to information, advice and guidance from Student Services, including disability support, counselling, financial and careers advisers
- all students receive a Student Handbook with details of assessment criteria, examination arrangements, guidance and support, academic appeals and complaints procedures
- staff treat students and colleagues fairly and professionally, with respect and consideration

Students at the University will commit to:

- attendance at induction events
- participation in timetabled classes, tutorials and assessment activities
- the election and support of programme representatives and participation in a variety of student feedback systems to improve the quality of learning and teaching
- submission of assessed work by stated deadlines
- observance of the regulations and codes of conduct of the University
- treatment of fellow students and all staff of the University fairly, with respect and consideration
- the prompt payment of fees or other charges to the University
The Students’ Union commits to enhance the educational and social development and general wellbeing of students within the University and the wider community by:

- representing student issues across the University and the local region
- supporting student participation in quality management at all levels of the University
- fighting discrimination and promoting equal opportunities by providing a safe space and running awareness campaigns
- assisting students to overcome welfare problems
- ensuring that its members are not disadvantaged whilst enrolled at the University as a result of personal circumstances or ignorance of their rights
- aiding professional development
- enriching athletic and social activities
